

Searching for Statutes Guide

Navigating Florida's online statutes, laws, and Journal databases can be very overwhelming. We designed this sample guide to demonstrate how these tools work together and how you can easily find meaningful information in relation to Florida's statutes, laws, and bills. The purpose of this guide is to help you understand the different "puzzle pieces" that are in each database. Once you know what those puzzle pieces are, you will be able to build the same puzzle no matter which piece you find first. In other words, your future research is likely to have several different starting points and you can work in many directions to find your answer. Throughout this sample guide, we are going to reference Florida Statute 256.16 and show you how we found the bill that created that statute (CS/CS/HB 427 in 2019). It is important to note that every tool that is mentioned in this sample guide is free and available to the public.

Florida Statutes

Website: <http://www.leg.state.fl.us>

The Florida Statutes are the codified, statutory laws of Florida. At the bottom of every statute is a section entitled “history”. This section describes the Chapter Law section that amends the statute.

If you have the Statute number and are trying to find the bill that created the amending section of Chapter Law, the history section is a good place to look. The next section shows how to search for bill number within a section of Chapter Law.

The screenshot shows the Florida Statutes website interface. At the top, the date is August 28, 2020. The search bar shows "Search Statutes: 2019 256.16" with a "Search" button. A "Select Year" dropdown is set to 2019 with a "Go" button. The left sidebar contains a navigation menu with links to Home, Senate, House, Citator, Statutes, Constitution, & Laws of Florida, Florida Statutes, Search Statutes, Search Tips, Florida Constitution, Laws of Florida, Legislative & Executive Branch Lobbyists Information Center, Joint Legislative Committees & Other Entities, Historical Committees, Florida Government Efficiency Task Force, Legislative Employment, Legistore, and Links. Below the sidebar are links for "Interpreter Services for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing", "Finding Florida Grades K-5", and "LIFE AS A LAWMAKER Grades 6+". The main content area displays "The 2019 Florida Statutes" for Title XVIII, Chapter 256, Public Lands and Property, Flags. Section 256.16 is titled "Honor and Remember flag.—". The text of the statute describes the flag's designation, display locations, and manufacturing requirements. A "History" section at the bottom indicates the statute was amended by s. 1, ch. 2019-145.

The section of Chapter Law that has created / amended the statute

Laws of Florida (Chapter Law)

Website: <http://laws.flrules.org/>

The Laws of Florida are where you will find the final text of bills that became law (the enrolled version) and how they amended the Florida Statutes.

The Chapter Law Number once a bill becomes law is a seven-digit code that is assigned by the Secretary of State. It denotes the year passed and order in which it was acted upon by the Governor.

The bill number associated with the Chapter Law is located in the right most column (see example above).

So, if you have a statute and want to see what bill number it derives from, you would go to the history of that statute, then to the Laws of Florida to find the relating Chapter Law.

As with all other legislation, an underlined section has added language to a statute while a strikethrough is removing language from a statute.

Bill Numbers

Website: <https://flhouse.gov/Sections/Bills/bills.aspx>

A listing of all bills going back to the 1998 Regular Session can be found on the House's website (link above), for prior years of bills not passed you will need to contact the State Records Center. As with all other legislation, an underlined section has been added to statute while a strikethrough is removing language from a statute.

Please Note: Each bill number only lasts for the Session in which it was filed, in addition, starting for the 1990 Regular Session, all House bills have been odd-numbered and all Senate bills have been even-numbered. Prior to 1990, you will have to look at the bill prefix to determine its house of origin.

The House's website includes a search function: number, type of bill, statute amended, session, sponsor, etc. This search gives the ability to isolate the specific bills. The information provided on the bill webpage includes:

- Short Title, this is what the bill relates to.
- Version(s) of the bill, there will be multiple versions if the bill is amended in a committee or on the floor.
- Vote history, these are votes taken on the vote board on amendments/motions/final passage of the bill.
- Staff analysis, committee staff publish two analyses each time a bill is heard in a committee, one before and one after the meeting.
- History of actions taken, the House has a tracking tool so that each time an action does occur you can be notified.
- Statutes referenced

Journal Indices

The House and Senate Journals going back in history include a number of indices that can be used in lieu of electronic means. Included amongst those are the Numeric Index, Subject Index, and Member Sponsor Index. These can be found at the back of each year’s journals.

Numeric Index

This index includes each bill organized by bill number. In each entry is the short title, sponsors, the final status of the bill by abbreviation, and the pages of the Journal that the bill can be found on. The last one is particularly useful, because it is the only index that contains the page numbers a bill is located on. Important to note is that each bolded page is where a vote on the bill was recorded in the Journal.

Subject Index

This index breaks down the bills that were filed on a specific topic. Bills that became law are bolded with their Chapter Law number next to them. This index is particularly useful when looking at historic journals and you do not have a bill number to reference in your search.

available on the House's website with links to the committees and bills.

The Florida Channel

Website: <https://thefloridachannel.org/>

The Florida Channel is Florida's public access channel. Coverage began in 1996 and was expanded in 2002. For audio recordings going further back, they may be available from the State Records Center.

The Florida Channel livestreams all legislative session and committee meetings. In addition, the website has a search function which allows for researchers to isolate specific committees, meetings and/or days of session. Researchers can also use the tags found at the bottom of each video to search and isolate specific bills or committees. Each tag corresponds to a bill that was discussed during that session day or committee meeting.
